President's Message Halts Anti-Alien Land Legislation
Till Tomorrow

CAPITOL THROGGED AS ACTION WAS EXPECTED

Gov. Johnson Says Bill Founded on Federal Law—Bryan
Defers Departure

SACRAMENTO, May 1.—Secretary Bryan's influence exerted through Democratic senators proved sufficient to delay final action on the Webb bill. When Birdsell called up the Webb bill, Curtis, Democrat, offered a joint resolution, pledging the legislature not to pass the bill this session in deference to President Wilson's wishes, then asked a postponement of the bill to 11 o'clock tomorrow. Caminetti urged the delay, threatening reprisals. The Democratic and administration senators debated lengthily. Thompson called out the administration steam roller, forcing an agreement to promises of no reconsideration and the matter went over to 11 o'clock tomorrow with the understanding that the final decision will be made then.

A telegram from President Wilson to Governor Johnson is believed to be a potent factor in the result. The President declared the Webb bill would involve an appeal in the courts on the question of treaty rights, and might cause a long and delicate litigation. Governor Johnson replied citing the effort of the Webb bill to preserve the existing treaty affirmatively on its face and asking suggestions how to avoid the objections. He sent copies of both messages to Senator Thompson with permission to read them to the senate.

The postponement of the consideration of the anti-alien legislation caused Secretary Bryan to postpone his scheduled departure for the east tonight and he will probably await final action on the Webb bill.

CAPITOL, SACRAMENTO, May 1.—The senate convened today at 10 o'clock. Administration leaders said the anti-alien bill would be considered on the arrival of Gov. Johnson and Secretary of State Bryan. Senator Thompson moved that the consideration of the Webb bill be postponed until tomorrow. The first arrivals in the galleries were two Japanese who have attended every hearing of the alien land measures. They took their seats an hour before anyone else appeared. Many in the corridors were unable to gain admittance to the senate chamber. After the noon hour, the crowds in the corridors and about the building increased.

GOV. JOHNSON AND SECRETARY
BRYAN VISIT JAP FARMS;
KEYNOTE OF WEBB BILL

SACRAMENTO, May 1.—Secretary of State W. J. Bryan returned from San Francisco early today and Governor Johnson planned before the legislature met to take him to the Florida walnut grove and nearby agricultural communities where Japanese farmers have driven out Americans. Governor Johnson today expounded that the keynote of the Webb bill rests on the federal doctrine that Japanese and Chinese are not eligible to citizenship. "Of course," he said, "it is determined by the highest courts that Japanese and Chinese may become citizens then the purpose of the bill will fail, but it has never yet been seriously suggested that they should be admitted to American citizenship. I wish to make it plain, especially to the people in the east, that the terms of the law we propose does not single out the Japanese, but relates to the races named by the federal law as ineligible to citizenship."

WILSON SAYS WEBB BILL

IS STILL DISCRIMINATORY
WASHINGTON, May 1.—President Wilson and his advisers believe the Webb anti-alien land bill pending in the California legislature is still discriminatory. It is understood that as soon as the bill is passed Japanese Ambassador Chinda will file a formal protest with the state department. It is expected President Wilson will suggest action in the federal courts to determine the bill's constitutionality, the federal government aiding Japan in the action as a friend of the court.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—President Wilson sent the following nominations to the senate: chief of the navigation bureau, chief of the bureau of naval engineering, Robert Briffing, chief engineer of the Naval Academy, W. Collins; San Jacinto, W. Tanner, Commissioner of Corporations, Joseph Davies of Wisconsin.

The senate confirmed the nomination of Charles P. Nease, commissioner of labor; J. L. Smith as commissioner of fish and game; and J. C. Strong, governor of Oklahoma.

Loamitos Woman Accepted

It Was Bogus

A man clever with pen and paint raised $1 silver certificate to $10, and production was passed at Loamitos. Yesterday afternoon two Mexicans, Tomas Gastelum and Pedraza, were arrested by Deputy E. Dean and Constable Heard and placed in the Orange county jail where they are being held for federal officers in Los Angeles. Dean and Garza say they are looking for men from San Francisco, Thompson and the condition of hands do not support their story they have been around Los Alamitos and Long Beach for some time. It is entirely possible that no number of pieces of raised paper have been disposed of by them they declare that they received them from somebody at Long Beach they used it innocent of the fact that it was anything else than a bill.

It was given by them to Mrs. Morfio keeps a boarding house at Loamitos. The work on the bill well done, and at a casual glance almost anyone would take it for a bill. Mrs. Morfio offered it in payment for some purchases at a Loamitos store. The storekeeper caught a bit of faulty work, close examination quickly convinced that the bill had been tampered with. With a glass he saw that it was a $1 bill raised to $10. Putak was used to blot out portion of the bill that the "artists" desired not show, and white paint, painted on the aid of a stencils used to make each O. Where word "One" appeared, an X was substituted. The word "one" appeared each corner of the back was blot out and "ten" painted on. The bill one O seemed to have been broken by the crumpling of the bill. The work still showed, it had been done by a master hand.

Officer to Los Alamitos yesterday in effort to locate the three Mexicans reported to have been together in the passing of the bad money yesterday afternoon two of the three were found. This morning Sheriff Law took them up with United States marshal McCormick of Los Angeles, who stated that the men in jail here would be prosecuted for tampering with Uncle Sam's money.

World Annually Spends Two Billions for War and War
Equipment

ST. LOUIS, May 1.—In an address punctuated with satirical reference to the case of army life, ridicule of the sponsors of militarism belittling the possibility of American war, Andrew Carnegie today opened the Fourth American Peace Conference. He said there would never be occasion for America to war with any great power as long as she treats every nation with friendliness and justice. He characterized as ridiculous the possibility that any nation would attempt to invade America.

Carnegie declared the American navy would be able to cope with any international situation. Some one in the audience asked if he did not believe America was "mortally afraid of Japan." Carnegie then demanded that all who were not afraid of Japan stand up. More than fifteen arose.

TALK WAS ALL FOR WORLD
PEACE AMONG THE SPEAKERS

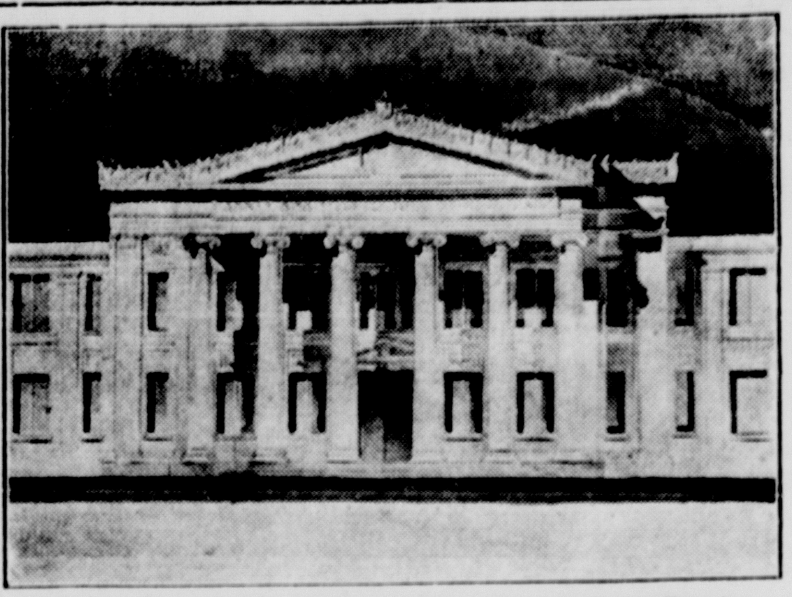

ST. LOUIS, May 1.—Complete disarmament—the literally turning of the sword into the ploughshare and the transforming of all battleships into vessels of commerce, were the themes of all speeches today at the opening of the Fourth American Peace Congress here. Peace over all the earth and good will between all nations was the way the quotation was paraphrased by more than one speaker before a vast assemblage composed of representatives from twenty-three states and territories of the United States and nineteen Central and South American nations. Among the subjects discussed today in full session or sectional conference were promotion of international peace by organizations, inter-American relations, universities and the peace movement, complete disarmament, The Hague conference, international law and needed improvements, and the relation of commerce to international peace.

President Woodrow Wilson, honorary president of the Congress, sent a message of good will in which he expressed his regret that press of administration business prevented him from attending. Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan, one of the active vice presidents, who was to read the official representatives of the federal government, was detained in California. Andrew Carnegie, another active vice president, who gave $1,000,000 to establish an endowment fund for the promotion of international peace, was scheduled to deliver the first address before the general assembly today. He was followed by Richard Bartholdt.

Figures were presented to the congress tending to show that the world today spends annually for war and war equipment $2,000,000,000—enough to pay for the construction of five Panama canals—and that adoption by international agreement, of the arbitration method of settling international disputes with the subsequent reduction of armaments, would enable the United States alone to divert many millions to agricultural, waterway and industrial projects that would bring millions in return.

Sectional conferences occupied the greater part of the afternoon, "International Relations" being discussed by John Barrett, director general of the Pan-American Union, and by Senator Don Ignacio Calderon, minister from Bolivia to the United States. "Universities and the Peace Movement" was the topic discussed by H. B. Hutchinson, president of the University of Michigan; President Frank L. McVay, of the University of North Dakota; President S. C. Mitchell, of the University of South Carolina; Chancellor James Hampton Kirkland, of Vanderbilt University, and Professor S. F. Weston, of Antioch College. Others who spoke today were Louis P. Lechner, general secretary of the Association of Cosmopolitan Clubs; Mrs. Fannie Fern Andrews, secretary of the American School Peace League; and President Charles F. Thwing, of Western Reserve University. Andrew Carnegie, Jenkin Lloyd Jones and Philip Van Ness Meyers were the section speakers on the symposium of disarmament. The conference meetings were followed this afternoon by the oratorical contest of the Intercollegiate Peace Association in which Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, South Dakota and Texas participated.

Tonight the congress will take up the present international problems which confront the United States. These are the Panama canal and advisability of fortifying the "Great Ditch," the Philippines, Japan, and

GOOD ROADS WORK IS CHIEF TOPIC ON TAP

The principal theme of discussion at the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce last night was the surveying being done by the County Highway Commission engineering corps. The principal criticism was that the surveying is being done partly by men who are not familiar with the county, and that a good deal of time is lost that could be saved were local men employed.

The upshot of the discussion was that a motion was carried asking the good roads committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce to appoint a committee of one or more to attend the regular meetings of the highway commission, advise that commission of public opinion and report to the Associated Chambers.

The matter was brought up last night in a letter signed by W. D. Coleman and two others, who stated that two of the principal men engaged in the survey and engineering work were brought here from outside the county, that they are not familiar with conditions and that much time is lost hunting for landmarks that any local surveyor could locate in a short time.

It was urged that the representa-tative who is to attend the commission's meeting use the utmost diplomacy in endeavoring to be of as much use as possible to the commission in working out its difficult problems.

H. T. Rutherford, for a committee, reported that it was not deemed advisable to form a construction at this time to bid on the good roads work. The committee considers it best to watch the progress made in the contract work, and if there appears to be any understanding among the various contractors whereby the work shall be divided up among them, a local company could and would be formed.

W. A. Cornelius, J. A. Armitage and H. B. Little were appointed a committee to inspect the car bill and advise the legislators from this county of their opinion.

The transportation committee was asked to make a report on the proposal to get a reduction of freight rate for dried fruits shipped East in sacks.

The chambers of commerce of Yorba Linda, Brea and Orange were admitted to membership. The meeting was held at Westminster, where an excellent turkey dinner was served.

The May meeting will be held at Buena Park.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 1.—A joint note from the European powers demanding the immediate cessation of hostilities in the Balkans was delivered today to the Porte. The note asked the Sultan to immediately name peace envoys for the purpose of concluding peace.

KING NICHOLAS MAY LISTEN TO ADVISE OF EUROPEAN POWERS
LONDON, May 1.—The Austro-Montenegrin situation was more hopeful today. Diplomats now believe that King Nicholas of Montenegro will permit consideration of the Scutari case by the powers. The Bourses in the various European capitals were generally steadier today.

The representatives of the powers conferred again today and it is said that certain powers have agreed to act with Austria to seize Antivari, providing Austria takes no action against Montenegro for two weeks. It is believed this is sufficient time in which to effect an amicable settlement of the Austro-Montenegrin tangle.

The suggestion was made that the Austrian, Italian and British fleets should occupy the Montenegrin ports of Antivari and Dubicino as a further demonstration to King Nicholas that the powers intend to force their demand that he surrender Scutari. The Montenegrin reply today to the powers' formal demand is non-committal and necessitates further negotiations. Montenegro reserves the right to bring the discussion of the disposition of Scutari into the peace negotiations between the Balkanites and Turkey.

BUSINESS MEN TO GO BEFORE PROBE

Indictments Delayed in White

Slave Action—Arrests Are Expected; Probe Widens

LOS ANGELES, May 1.—Action on the vice probe indictments submitted to the grand jury by the district attorney's office were delayed today until the conclusion of an important conference between Chief of Police Sebastian, and other officials. It is reported that three well-known business men may be called to testify before final action. The jury held a brief session today then recessed.

EXPECTED ARREST OF GIRL

LOS ANGELES, May 1.—Katherine Phillips, the young moving picture actress, whose charges against Geo. H. Bixby of Long Beach brought on the vice probe by the grand jury, is expected to be arrested in San Francisco today.

It was also expected this morning that Eva Meves, the 14-year-old girl of South Pasadena, whose name is involved with that of Bixby and who is said to have been furnished money with which to leave Los Angeles to avoid a grand jury subpoena, would be arrested with her sister Emma in Portland, Ore. Miss Phillips declares Bixby plotted to have her sent to jail on false charges on account of jealousy, and the two Meves girls are believed to have knowledge of some men who visited the Jougouil rooming house at 807 South Hill street.

Evelyn Quick, a 15-year-old moving picture actress, has made charges against William La Casse and Richard Hollingsworth, both of whose cases will be taken up probably by the grand jury. They are to be examined in Justice Reeve's court May 6. A general vice probe is likely to be made by the grand jury, twenty-nine disorderly houses in both office and residential districts having been reported by a former private operative,

ANAHEIM IS LEADING FIGHT FOR FORMATION OF PROPOSED RIVER PROTECTION DISTRICT

Altitudes of Various Parts of Section Within Boundary Quoted by Speakers at Mass Meeting

It looks as though it is Anaheim against the rest of the proposed Security Protection District. At least, the hardest work for the district is being done at Anaheim, while the greatest opposition comes from outside.

Anaheim has held a mass meeting in favor of the district. Westminister, Garden Grove and Fullerton have held meetings that pronounced decided opinion against the district so far as it plans to include them.

The hearing is before the Board of Supervisors on May 6. At that time there will be literally hundreds of people present or represented by attorneys or petition, asking that their hands be not included in the proposed district. By forming the district it is proposed to establish a channel and build dikes for the Santa Ana river from Yorba to the upper line of the Newhart Protection District at West Orange.

Opposition to the inclusion of that territory in the limits of the proposed river protection district has been presented to the Chamber of Commerce at Fullerton by property owners who think that city is in no danger from the river, and a resolution was adopted expressing the same sentiment by the chamber. A letter to this effect has been sent to the supervisors by the president and secretary, and a committee has circulated petitions of protest to be signed. These will be presented by E. K. Benchley at the meeting of the supervisors May 6, when action is to be taken by them in regard to forming the district.

The Anaheim Gazette tells of the mass meeting at Anaheim Saturday night, saying:

"Showing that the outlying districts which have recently gotten up petitions against the formation of the Security Protection District, are lower in altitude and consequently more subject to overflow of the Santa Ana river than this city, members of the Board of Trade at Monday night's meeting dealt a death blow to the contention that these districts are in no danger from the flood waters of the river. The matter was brought up by Chairman Eygabroad, who asked V. U. Simpson, chairman of the committee which secured signatures to a petition for formation of the district, to state where the proposition stood at the time.

"I was in Santa Ana and held conference with the old board of supervisors," said Simpson, "and they told me positively that the Olive bridge, for construction of which $30,000 was lying idle in the treasury, would not be built until a protection district should be formed and steps taken looking to the curbing of the river's water. Heretofore water of the stream in flood times has meandered about this district, inundating land on both sides of this city, and on some occasions the main stream ran down the center of town. I notice the Fullerton people are circulating petitions protesting against formation of the district, saying property in that city is not subject to overflow. These people seem to have forgotten that eleven years ago men were engaged in shoveling mud from floors of business houses in Fullerton, all houses were more or less damaged, and one man lost his life in aiding residents. And still the good people in that locality are objecting to formation of a protection district, saying they are immune from damage."

"Buena Park also, I understand, is objecting to formation of the district. As a matter of fact, Buena Park is the lowest place in the district, there being considerable fall from Anaheim to that city. "I understand a man is circulating a report that if the district is formed, it will cost land owners from $10 to $12 per acre. That is a great mistake, for the cost should not exceed $1 per acre."

Representatives were present from West Orange, Garden Grove, Stanton, Buena Park and Santa Ana. City Engineer Steward, who with A. A. Mills, went over the boundary of the proposed district before the boundary was defined, was asked to talk on the matter. "I have lived in this city twenty-five years," he said, "and know something about the actions of the river in question. For four weeks, in 1889, it was impossible for anyone to get from Santa Ana to Los Angeles except by wagon road, and part of the time that was impossible. The whole country was inundated and railroad trains were a scarce article in these parts. At other times in the country's history, similar, but perhaps not such disastrous floods have occurred, and I am sure there is no one here who does not recognize the need of river protection. The question that naturally arises is, Who shall do it? and how is it to be done? We are all liable to overflow, and no man in the proposed district can say he is not in danger, for one can never tell where the river is going until it is gone. We are all liable to flood. If we do not take measures toward abating the danger from overflow, it seems to me we are inviting whatever danger may overtake us. I am not prepared to state what the cost of protecting the river will be for that is not in my line, and it would take expert engineers who have made a specialty of this work to estimate the cost, but as only $5000 has been spent on the river in the past twenty years, it ought not to cost so very much to fix it up right at this time. I am in favor of starting the work, and completing it at the earliest possible moment."

A. A. Mills brought a map of the geological survey for this district before the meeting and showed the altitudes of the various portions of the proposed district. "The danger point is at the Yorba bridge," he said, "and from there the flood waters are liable to break away and flood any part of the northern part of the proposed district. As to the altitudes of the various portions of the district, the Santa Fe depot at Fullerton is four feet lower than the Santa Fe depot at Anaheim, and yet the Fullerton people think Anaheim is trying to get them into something they do not need. The same contour line which passes through the river bed near the Chinese gardens east of Anaheim, also goes through the new residence of W. L. Hale a mile and a half east of Fullerton. The altitude of Buena Park is 73 feet, which is 20 feet lower than Garden Grove, and gives a fall of 19 feet to the mile from the danger point at Yorba to Buena Park. The fall from Anaheim to Garden Grove is 17 feet per mile, while the fall down the river bed is only 13 feet. If the water breaks over, there's no telling where it is going to lane, for all this country to the west is lower than the river, and the people of Westminster make fun of the web-footed people of Talbert, but their own town is 25 feet lower than the former."

Secretary Ahlborn, of the board of trade, said that the assessed valuation of all property in the proposed protection district is $15,000,000. He thought that a tax of 20 cents on the $100 for the first five years, making a total of $30,000 yearly for the work, would be sufficient to carry on necessary improvements. After the five years, he said, probably the river would be in such good condition that an assessment of 10 cents would probably be sufficient to keep up the protection and that probably later the rate could be further decreased. As only $5000 has been spent upon river protection in this section in the last 20 years, he said, he thought $30,000 a year ought to be sufficient to afford adequate protection, without loading a tax upon the people that some of them would find it difficult to pay.

The matter was disposed of by Secretary Ahlborn, who made a motion that it be recommended to the board of supervisors that the rate of assessments in the new district be 20 cents for the first five years and whatever decrease is possible after that should be made, finally bringing the rate to 5 cents per $100 yearly. The motion was carried unanimously.

ELKS' MINSTRELS HOLD THE STAGE FOR TWO NIGHTS

With their faces decorated to deliver the impression that they are straight from the black belt of Alabama, a score or more Santa Ana Elks will gather around Interlocutor Menton on the stage of the Grand Opera House tonight.

With a blast, the jamboree will start. Bones and tambourines and jokes that reach right out and grab the audience will hold away for tonight and tomorrow night.

The Santa Ana Elks are not new to minstrelsy. Several shows have been put on by the local herd, and every one has proven successful. That alone put on in years past were successes, and that the word has gone out that tonight's performance will be the fact that the advance sale of tickets has been a large one. However, there are good seats left, and those who are in need of a digestive tablet after supper tonight will find that minstrelsy laughter beats the ordinary pill to death.

Specialties have been arranged that will bring down the house. The Elks have set out to do the thing right, and last night's practice showed that their determination has been crowned with attainment.

NOTICE OF CLOSING
 —Horseshoeing, blacksmithing and wagon repair shops will close Saturday noon, May 3, and thereafter because of the heat of the season. Customers are asked to be prepared, because there will be no shops open. Per blacksmiths' agreement.

THE "MOVIES" AS A HEALTH PROBLEM

The popularity of the moving-picture theater as a form of cheap entertainment for the masses has directed attention to several of its undesirable features. In Chicago it is said that 250,000 persons, a considerable portion of whom are children, attend these theaters daily. Most of the theater buildings are cheap storerooms, remodeled for the purpose, often, without adequate provision for ventilation. It is estimated that the air in one of these theaters will pass through the lungs of the audience in from six to eight minutes. They therefore constitute, as the Chicago Health Bulletin remarks, one of the health problems called into existence by modern customs and conditions. In cities all over the country, the problem is practically the same, involving the role of contact or close association in the spread of "colds" and the various infectious diseases. It is a matter of observation that the incidence of the various infective diseases of childhood immediately increases on the opening of the schools in the fall on account of the increased opportunity for contact between infected and non-infected children. It may therefore be reasonably assumed that the close contact in the moving-picture theater is also a factor in the distribution of infectious diseases. Since it is not easy to exclude those who have diseases or who come from homes where disease exists, well-considered regulations as to ventilation and sanitation should be enforced for the protection of the public.

THE MIDDLEMAN AGAIN

Los Angeles, Long Beach and other Southern California towns are engaged in experimenting with the public market. And a long-named organization called the "National Conference on Marketing and Farming Credits" which has just been meeting at Chicago, has been studying the everlasting problem of the middleman. Said Edward Kone, commissioner for agriculture of Texas, "The railroads aren't getting the money, the farmer isn't. It's the middleman. We're after him." President Radford of the Texas Farmers' Union wants to know why the Northern consumer pays one dollar a bushel for potatoes, while his farmers get but thirty cents.

However, the farmer prefers the middleman. A great many dairymen living near large cities say they would like to deliver direct to the consumer. But they usually find they would have to advertise for customers, would have to put up their product in fancy bottles, have no way of getting receipts back, etc. Yet it seems like national inefficiency to let apples rot on the ground in the country, while in the cities inferior fruit sells for five cents each.

Politicians and ministers and women's organizations have tried to break prices by selling direct to the consumer. But they get free advertising, they pay nothing for clerk hire or rent, they have no taxes and no bad debts. Goods can be sold cheap as long as the distributor is willing to work for nothing.

Perhaps your grandfather used to make trips through the retail district on his way home from business. He would gather in at low prices a market basket full of brown paper parcels. Few business men would do that today. They could not spare the time and someone might see them carrying bundles.

No doubt many farmers could develop profitable direct relations with in-town customers if they were not afraid to spend a little money on advertising. It would take a little time. But once a few customers were secured and satisfaction given to them, the business would spread of itself.

MARY PENNISTON IS DEAD AT AGE OF 76

First Easter Lilies in United States Brought From Her Gardens in Bermuda

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 1.—Miss Mary Browne Penniston, a well-known charity worker, from whose gardens in Bermuda the first Easter lilies are said to have been brought to the United States, died at St. Joseph's hospital of pneumonia, after an illness of two days. She was 76 years old, and a native of the Bermuda Islands.

She and her sister kept a garden which was seen by an American florist visiting in the islands. He secured a few of the bulbs and introduced them to this country. Miss Penniston came to the United States a number of years ago and has been in mission and charity work, formerly in Minneapolis, and during the last four years in St. Paul. She was a member of the Red Cross and for several years headed that organization in Los Angeles, Cal. She had been active in church and charity work up to a few days before her death.

MAKES INQUIRY FOR HOPEWELL'S RECORD

Sheriff Raddock has received a letter from J. A. Wiest of Brawley asking for information concerning the record of F. H. Hopewell. Wiest states that he understands Hopewell has a criminal record here, and he particularly wants to know about a manslaughter case.

There may be some such a record to be found somewhere in Orange county, but Hopewell's name does not appear on the county jail records. Neither is it to be found on the justice court records. It is said that someone by the name of Hopewell was once arrested at Huntington Beach on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, but information on that point is so meager that it is about as good as no information at all. No man under the name of Hopewell was ever prosecuted for manslaughter here. Wiest states that he has had some trouble with F. H. Hopewell.

And Many Are the Voices of Santa Ana People

Thirty thousand voices—What a grand chorus! And that's the number of American men and women who are publicly praising Doan's Kidney Pills for relief from headache, kidney and bladder ills. They say it to friends. They tell it in the home papers. Santa Ana people are in this chorus. Here's a Santa Ana case.

Mrs. J. M. Osgood, 516 Bush St., Santa Ana, Cal., says: "I suffered from pains throughout my body. I was nervous and couldn't get much rest at night. My joints were swollen and rheumatic. I felt miserable in every way. Doan's Kidney Pills proved to be just the medicine I needed. They drove away the pains and aches and toned up my system. That happened some years ago. Several times since, I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills and they have been satisfactory in every way. I give them credit for keeping me well. After I first used Doan's Kidney Pills I publicly told of my experience and I can say that they are all they are claimed to be."

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Youngs Entertained Forty Guests Last Evening

ORANGE, May 1.—In honor of their crystal wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Youngs entertained last evening at their home on West Chapman avenue. Over forty guests enjoyed their charming hospitality.

Arrayed in all the splendor that decorative skill could create, the spacious rooms of the Youngs home presented a most attractive appearance. A profusion of roses and smilax, set off by a brilliant lighting effect formed a display which was fairly dazzling. Whist was one of the principal amusements, while those of the guests who cared to, indulged in dancing. An almost continuous program of musical selections filled the intermissions nicely. While the occasion was the fifteenth wedding anniversary of the Youngs, it was also the seventeenth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Leech, who shared in the honors of the evening. Delightful refreshments, in two courses, were served, Decker's catering for the affair.

The guests of the evening were: Messrs. and Mesdames Alfred Leech, E. Meehan, Henry Young, G. A. Shoemaker, C. W. Meadows, W. W. Porter, John McCarthy, W. A. Knott, Henry Meehan, C. L. Conway, C. O. Field, James Meehan, W. T. Porter, H. Handy, C. J. Porter; Mesdames A. Field, Bryant, Stark, L. E. Jones and L. B. Gitchell; the Misses Esther Livingston, Mary Bryant, Bessie Lee, Williamson and Willis; Messrs. E. A. J. Mueller and Carl H. Youngs.

The wedding of Miss Josie Crist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Crist of El Modena, to Milton M. Bolton, was celebrated at the Crist home Tuesday evening. The event was unique in the fact that the guests had been invited to a fruit shower and were totally unaware that they were to witness a wedding ceremony. This was performed by Rev. H. M. Moore of El Modena at 8 p.m. After the guests had all recovered from their surprise the affair proceeded in the usual manner, with rice playing a conspicuous part. After collecting numerous wedding gifts and waiting long enough to enjoy the dainty refreshments the bridal couple fled on their honeymoon, no one being aware of their destination.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Conway, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. Harlin and Mrs. C. Winans of Santa Ana, motored to Redlands today.

Mrs. Will Grafton and children have gone to Montana. They were called there by the death of Mrs. Grafton's sister.

The W. A. Dyer, C. A. Clough and M. C. Cooper families are spending the day at the Orange County Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Dufford will leave tomorrow for Arch Beach where they will visit for some time. A party of Orange people are attending the Foresters' picnic at Garden Grove today. Among the attractions are a track meet and bicycle races.

A new packing house is being erected opposite the Santa Fe depot and adjoining the packing house of the Foothill Valencia Growers' Association. The building is now nearing completion, under the supervision of Jack McInnes, who will also manage the house, when it opens for business. —R. McInnes was formerly with the Wanda packing house at Villa Park. Joe Reed spent yesterday with friends in Orange. He has just returned from a trip through Utah, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Northern California.

Mrs. S. G. Unland entertained the Thimble Club at her home yesterday afternoon. A most enjoyable time was spent with needlework, after which Mrs. A. H. Small gave several readings in her usual pleasing manner. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. The following ladies were present: Mesdames B. R. Douglass, J. Walton, N. Allen, A. H. Small, C. J. Gregg, M. C. Cooper and Mrs. S. G. Unland.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Drake and little son, David, Mrs. Wm. Marsh, and Mrs. Emma Husk formed an automobile party yesterday, motoring to Pasadena, Alhambra, Whittier and San Gabriel, where they attended the Mission Play.

Miss Helen Fullerton has been spending a few days with relatives in La Habra. She is expected home about the end of this week.

Jefferson School Chooses New Officers—Discussed Topics of Importance

The Parent-Teacher's Association of Jefferson School met Wednesday, April 30, at 2:30 o'clock. The following officers were elected for the year beginning June 1: Mrs. Shepherd, president; Mrs. Strong, first vice-president; Mrs. Grubb, second vice-president; Mrs. Jayne, third vice-president; Miss Shrewsbury, recording secretary; Miss Barclay, treasurer.

Ways and means for raising money to furnish the rest room were discussed.

The subject of dress for the girls of the eighth grade who are to graduate was also taken up. The opinion of the mothers was that the dress should be as inexpensive as possible, not costing more than twenty-five cents a yard. Since all the mothers of the eighth grade pupils were not present, the mothers decided that if they adopted a standard, it might be considered dictatorial, so a special meeting of the mothers of the eighth grade pupils was called to meet Monday, May 5, at 4 p. m. at Jefferson school.

Mrs. McElree, president of the City Federation, was called upon for remarks. Mrs. McElree responded very graciously and promised the support of the City Federation in all undertakings.

A very instructive talk was given by Miss Cartnell, the school nurse, on her work. She treated especially the work with the Spanish children of the Central school. She also showed how by careful watching an epidemic of pink eye and scarlet fever had been averted.

The following program was rendered by the pupils of the school:

Songs—"The Violet," "Pretty Golden Poppies," "Little Drop of Dew," Second Grade.

Piano Duet—Kenneth and Irena Coulson.

Recitation—"Barbara Frietchie," Velma Collins.

Song—"Baby's Shoes," Cynthia Shepherd.

That Calendar Social

The calendar social at the First Baptist church was a great success. It was given under the auspices of a committee comprising Mesdames Harris, Innes, Bell, May and Alexander. They had $34 to add to the building fund for the new church as a result of the social.

The church was beautifully decorated, the auditorium being garnished in tints of red, white and green. Grasshoppers, turkeys and black bugs were seen everywhere and the place seemed about to be taken by them, but when a cantata entitled "The Grasshopper" was presented by sixteen girls, the secret of their presence was out. The program was as follows:

"Old Maids' Tea Party," Misses White, Minter, Borden and Harris.

"Fortune Tellers," Misses Mario Harris and Emily West.

"We'll Have to Mortgage the Farm," Misses Minter and Havens.

Mrs. Harris, Mr. Harris, Mr. Williams.

Song: "Good Night."

"All day suckers" were passed during the entertainment to keep all in good humor, then at the close refreshments of cake and fruitade were served.

PLEASANT EVENING

Wedell Home Bright With Flowers for Entertainment of Large Party of Friends

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wedell were host and hostess to a company of about half a hundred guests, the house being most profusely adorned for the event with lovely roses. Rarely has such a profusion of magnificent roses been seen at any social event in this city. The fine old grounds of the Wedell home is famous for its beautiful roses and other flora and yielded a real wealth of the queen of flowers last evening. Maman Cochet roses massed in an immense brass jardiniere on a big round table was the center of admiring attention, but everywhere in vases and jardiniere were the floral beauties.

The Wedell North Main street home with its lofty ceilings and stucco velvet-carpeted rooms, is immensely attractive, being conspicuous for its difference with the more modern dwellings. Many were the comments of approval on the airiness of the rooms combined with their dignity of appearance. The beautiful carved furniture adds greatly to the unusual charm of the home.

Conversation and music mingled delightfully in the entertainment of the evening, no formal program having been arranged. C. A. Gustin played a number of times, greatly to the pleasure of the company. Mr. Gustin's playing is purely individual and his interpretation of music has such a human and intimate quality that even the most classical number somehow appeals irresistibly to the listener. So it is always with a feeling of serene satisfaction that one hears Mr. Gustin play. His numbers were most satisfying last night.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Albright, who sing very charmingly together, sang a number of selections that met with decided appreciation. Mrs. Louise Scarborough, who pleases her friends greatly by her humorous readings, read with just the right flavor of jollity "Sally Ann's Experiences," much to the delight of her hearers.

Cecil Bruners prevailed in the flower scheme and were used in pretty crystal vases on the small tables where the delicious refreshments were served in two courses after the informal entertainment.

Au Revoir Social

Friday evening at 7 o'clock there will be held at the United Presbyterian church an "au revoir" social to the pastor, Rev. W. L. C. Samson, who is going to Atlanta, Ga., as a commissioner to the general assembly. Rev. Mr. Samson expects to be gone almost five weeks.

The social is to be under the auspices of the Sabbath school council, the members of which will be on hand in full force with their escorts. The friends of the school will be there, too, and last but not least, the choir and organist are to be guests of the occasion. They will render sweet music for the event. Miss Ely, choir director, has this matter in charge. The affair will be unique. "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine, but a broken spirit drieth the bones."

Sunday school problems will be discussed amid pleasant surroundings.

Motored to Riverside

Mr. and Mrs. Van Dorn and little daughter were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Quick on a delightful motor trip to Riverside and Pomona yesterday. Mrs. Moorhouse, a niece of the Quicks, was also a member of the party. They motored up Mount Rubidoux, getting the glorious view that is available from the mountain. Return was made by way of Brea Canyon, the drive through the verdure covered hills being most charming. The party reached home just as Santa Ana lighted up for the night, and the valley city glittering with electric lights was a beautiful sight to see.

The Van Dorns start on their return to their home at Canton, Ill., on May 13, preparatory to closing up their affairs there before coming to California for permanent residence. It will be remembered that the Van Dorns a few weeks ago purchased the Quick home on East Fourth street. They are looking forward eagerly to the time when they will occupy it and become citizens of Santa Ana.

Novel Contest Made Merriment For Company of Ladies Yesterday Afternoon

One of the very pleasant events of the social season was that given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Prince L. Tople at her spacious home at 320 South Main street. Gorgeous yellow poppies were used throughout the house, being clustered in baskets of still other tints. It was all very pretty and attractive.

A progressive bundle contest kept the ladies at fifteen tables guessing for an hour or two, the guests having to decide on the contents of tied-up bundles merely by feeling. Mrs. H. Clay Kellogg proved to have the keenest fingers and was rewarded for her ownership of clever digits by receiving an exquisite hand-painted spoon tray of china. Baskets of yellow roses were given to Mrs. S. J. Evans and Mrs. Balshaw for second and consolation prizes respectively.

Appetizing refreshments were served in two courses on the small tables which were adorned with pretty floral center pieces. Mrs. Tople was assisted in scoring and serving by Mrs. Margaret Maynard, Mrs. P. C. Rowland, Mrs. Fred Ross and the Misses Tiede.

The guests invited were Mesdames Allen, Balshaw, Bartlett, Beissel, Barker, Black, Bowes, Clayton, Claytor, Cloyes, Cranston, Crawford, Crookshank, Crose, Dale, Decker, Deering, Duggan, Dobson, Holbrook, Evans, Ky, Gale, Gilbert, Hammond, Halstead, Jordan, Kellogg, Kelley, Lamme, Maynard, Livesey, McCormac, Merigold, Meyer, Morrow, R. H. Miles, R. E. Miles, Mills, Norton, Peek, Parsons, Ratcliffe, Ross, Arkinson, Rowell, Rowland, Reuter, Rudock, Runyan, Van Cleave, Vandermaas, Wassum, W. W. Wassor, J. S. Wassor, Chas. Whitted, Whidden, White, Worden, Winbiger, Wilson, Zielhan, Lloyd; Misses Crookshank, Cloyes, Horton, Seaton, Jo and Blanche Tiede.

Civics Club Meeting

The regular meeting of the Civics Club will be held at the city hall on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. This will be an important meeting, since a question of vital interest to every one is to be discussed. The subject, "Our Mexican Population," will be presented in various phases by interesting speakers including Rev. Mr. Gonzales, who has charge of the local Spanish mission work being carried on by the Southern California Methodist Conference. Other local speakers will be Mrs. Clark, the teacher of Spanish children in Central school, who is doing such splendid work; Superintendent of City Schools J. A. Cranston, who in his capacity comes in close contact with the Spanish speaking children of the schools, and Supervisor Talbert, who will tell of his knowledge and part in the county work among the Spanish. These workers will explain the plans that Santa Ana and Orange county are trying to carry out in connection with the solution of this difficult problem of city and county.

See Who's There!

Oh, you Elks! In those Dragon winnows. How cosy you are on that gay, purple-carpeted stage, with its rose-adorned wings and shiny footlights and flower-decked proscenium. "Gaily the Troubadours"—blithe Freddie Ross and cunning "Doc" Harney—jingle the tambourine and the banjo, while "Bright Eyes" Johnson and his mates of the Hungarian trio, Livesey and Plumb, do acrobatic stunts at a dizzy (?) height. And, oh, see! There's "Doc" Clark trying to sneak away from "Cop" Jernigan with his fierce helmet and a "hello call."

The roosters are there, too, and the houn' dog bayin' at the moon, moon, m-o-o-o! A couple of proud elks holding antlers high lend dignity to the scene, which is a triumph of Dragon ingenuity, and a clever acrobatic stunt for the Elks' minstrel shows tonight and also tomorrow night, and probably, if the aggregation of stars were pressed with sufficient strenuousness, might be continued every other night for weeks to come. Oh, you Elks!

The Elk theme is carried into the other snow window of the oragon, where a monster raisin loaf and all kinds and varieties of raisin bakery goodies are shown. From behind the giant loaf, beams a jovial Elk minstrel, and off to one side is a merry youth astride of a handsome forest elk. Purple and lavender ribbons and the purple shades of the candelabra used in the decorative effects of the window are suggestive of the order of Elks, the purple of royalty being one of the chosen colors of the "royal good fellows" of the B. P. O. E.

Oh, you Elks!

SISTERHOOD HAD ANNUAL MEETING

Missionary Union of This City Advance Cause of Missions in All-Day Meeting

The annual meeting of the Missionary Sisterhood was held yesterday in the First Methodist Episcopal church with a very good attendance. The church was decorated very prettily for the occasion. The Sisterhood was organized one year ago and this is the second meeting held. Mrs. F. J. Rogers, the president, was in the chair during the meeting.

The first session was opened at 10 a. m. with the "Quiet Hour," led by Mrs. W. L. C. Samson. Greetings were extended by the president, Mrs. Rogers, and committees appointed as follows: Nominating, Mrs. Russell, Mrs. Samson and Mrs. Stevenson; Courtesy, Mrs. McLeod; Resolutions, Mrs. Anna Hill and Mrs. Frank Hill. Young ladies from the Foreign Missionary Society acted as ushers for the day. Reports of officers were given.

A very instructive paper was read by Mrs. S. A. Shallenberger on "The Livingston Centenary." Mrs. E. J. Foster read an interesting paper on "The Possibilities of a Literature of Retire."

At the noon hour about fifty ladies ate their lunch in the dining room of the church. The ladies of the Methodist church serving coffee and cocoa.

The afternoon session was opened at 1:30 p. m. with the "Quiet Hour," conducted by Mrs. George Huser.

Mrs. C. F. Cross spoke in an interesting manner on "The Miracle of Modern Mission." She spoke about the present conditions in Turkey, saying that the Turks had gone to American missionaries for advice and that they were forced to take on western ways. The Mohammedans are hard to reach or come in touch with, but the Lord has opened the way and laid down the walls that the way may be sealed and that class reached.

The courtesies committee, Mrs. McLeod, introduced Mrs. A. Jones of the Ebel Day Nursery, who spoke on "Home Missions," and on the work of the "Day Nursery." Mrs. McLaughlin, returned from the Philippines, spoke on the work there. She told of the difference in the city of Manila now as compared with the city of thirteen years ago. It has been cleaned from the filth and disease that was then so terrible and sanitary conditions now exist, a condition largely due to American missionaries.

Mrs. Winbiger sang the beautiful song, "If I Were a Voice." She was accompanied by Mrs. Padham. "Missions in China and Japan" was the subject on which Miss Luella McGaughey spoke. Miss McGaughey and Miss Dolph of Arch Beach recently took a trip to Japan and China and Miss McGaughey told of many interesting things they saw and displayed many beautiful costumes worn by the people in those countries. It was all very interesting. At intervals during Miss McGaughey's talk, Miss Dolph played the cornet.

The nominating committee reported the following officers for the coming year who were unanimously elected: President, Mrs. Z. B. West; recording secretary, Miss Mary Talbot; literature secretary, Mrs. Seeley; treasurer, Mrs. D. L. Anderson.

The resolutions committee reported the following resolutions:

Recognizing the fact that Santa Ana and vicinity have been more than unusually blessed this year when nine of our neighboring communities have suffered such material loss; therefore, be it resolved, that we show our gratitude to God by endeavoring to draw nearer to Him and making greater effort to advance His kingdom here. To do this we pledge ourselves as a Sisterhood to enter heartily into the work of the evening evangelistic meetings; also be it

Resolved, that in order to increase the attendance at these very helpful and inspiring meetings, that the officers prepare a banner or pennant to be awarded next year to the society having the largest representation present at the annual meeting.

Resolved, that as a body of missionary workers we feel the inspiration of this meeting and that we will do better work and will remember oftener the calls of the mission work and our obligation to do all we can to meet them.

Resolved, that we extend our heartiest thanks and appreciation to the press of the city for publishing the announcements and reports of our gathering.

Resolved, that we thank the ladies of the entertaining church for their hospitality in connection with the lunch and for everything contributed for the general comfort and pleasure of those present. We also wish to thank the speakers and singers for their great help and inspiration in this meeting.

Respectfully submitted, MRS. ANNA HILL, MRS. FRANK HILL.

Opportunity Is Ever Present

In a sense every man regards New Year's day as a new beginning in his life. But every day, every hour, holds this opportunity for every man; namely, that if he has failed up to that moment he may at that moment begin anew. The opportunity to resolve to begin anew is present. How to begin may not be apparent, but rest assured that to every man and woman resolved to do his best, opportunity will come. Perhaps it will come all the quicker if sought. There is no greater untruth lying around as a stumbling stone in the world today than the statement that opportunity comes but once.

Of course opportunity for material success—money opportunity—is not the highest form of opportunity, but it is a mighty good opportunity to embrace. Save your money, open an account with this bank and be ready for any and every opportunity that comes your way.

FRUIT BUYER DISAPPEARED

J. C. Delaney of Anaheim Started for San Dimas But Did Not Get There

Sheriff Ruddock is Asked to Aid in Locating the Missing Man

J. C. Delaney, district manager of the Randolph Fruit Company at Placentia, has been missing from his home in Anaheim for two days. The Los Angeles office of the company was notified yesterday afternoon that Delaney left in his motor car at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday morning and started to San Dimas. He did not reach his destination or return. Sheriff Ruddock has been asked to help locate the missing fruit man.

Men employed by Mrs. Delaney inquired along the road between Anaheim and San Dimas yesterday, but learned of no trace of Delaney. Mrs. Delaney said that her husband was suffering from an injury received recently when a cross beam fell and struck him on the head. She fears he has suffered a temporary lapse of memory.

Delaney is five feet, eight inches tall, has black hair, brown eyes and Van Dyke beard. His motor is a Buick roadster.

LOS ANGELES PRODUCE MARKET

About ten boxes of cherries were received yesterday, this being the largest shipment so far this season. The fruit was offered at $3.50 a box. Cherries are expected to arrive in large quantities soon.

Lequats were in good supply and met with a fair demand. There has not been much change in price lately. Strawberries were much cheaper than usual, with quotations as low as 3½ cents a basket in some instances. Better stock brought around 5 to 7 cents on the wholesale market. The supply has been good the last few days. Blackberries are expected soon.

The market is heavily loaded with onions. Considerable quantities of Bermudas are received from Imperial, and Silverskins are also coming in pretty regularly. Yellow Bermudas were quoted as low as 50 cents a crate in one or two instances, although the better quality brought around 90 cents to $1 a crate. The market shows weak tendencies, however. Ned potatoes are in good supply. The market is easy. Northern cabbage was received and brought from ¼ to 1½ cents a pound. Some of it was poor in quality. Asparagus was still abundant. Wax beans were received and brought about 20 to 25 cents a pound. They are still dear and scarce, but should soon decline. There was a small quantity of bell peppers and egg plant in evidence. Sweet potatoes have not been very plentiful of late.

The market on butter and eggs remained steady. Butter showed some indications of firmness, but as receipts have been large by comparison the last two days, it is not improbable that there will be a small decline in a day or two. Cheese was firm, as the price is up ½ cent in San Francisco.

"Always Air"

ALWAYS AIR is a fluid compound, a small quantity of which, when placed in the inner tube of a pneumatic tire will instantly, automatically and permanently stop all punctures from the smallest to the size of a 20-penny spike.

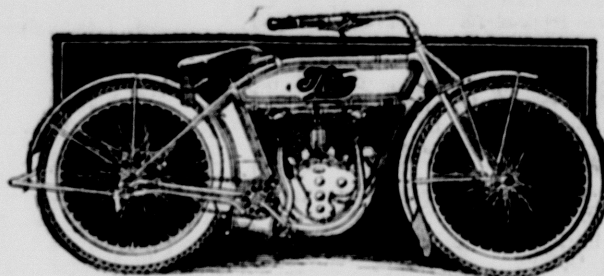

IT IS NOT A TIRE FILLER

It is not only inexpensive but adds 50 per cent. to the service of tires. It will not injure rubber. It is not affected in its operation by heat or cold. It will not harden, gum, dry up or deteriorate. It will not stick the inner tube to the casing. It cannot come into contact with the casing. It can be changed from one tube to another. It will last for years. It adds practically no weight to the tire (only about three pounds to the largest tire.) It fills only a small portion of the inner tube, and the pneumatic quality of the tire is retained.

After picking up a nail in the road, you will always run at least a block and generally a much longer distance on a flat tire. This shortens the life of the casing at least 50 per cent, sometimes ruins it immediately. After having tires treated with our fluid you may remove nails at once or never remove them, and in either case there is no leakage of air.

Harms is the plaintiff, represented by Attorney W. M. Brown, and he sued for labor performed by him. IN THE JUSTICE COURT

DEPUTY WAS ON THE JURY

Westminster Poolroom Man
Fined $200 After Futile Effort to Get New Trial

A new role for a deputy sheriff was the bone of contention in an argument before Justice Cox this morning. T. A. Wells of Huntington Beach wanted Luis Savalea, found guilty by a jury Tuesday, given a new trial on the charge of keeping his poolroom open after midnight. Wells declared that F. E. Farnsworth, one of the jurors, is a deputy sheriff, and therefore Savalea did not have a fair trial. Justice Cox was vainly impressed with the force of Wells' argument, but he was not fully and completely impressed. He denied the motion for a new trial, and ordered Savalea to pay a fine of $200. Wells is going to take the case to the superior court.

There is no question but what Farnsworth is a deputy sheriff. He is one of those kind that are plentiful.

They draw no pay, but they are deputized sometimes for self-protection, sometimes that they may be of voluntary aid to the sheriff, sometimes for some special occasion.

Some time ago Farnsworth was appointed a deputy. He wears a star on his vest under the lapel of his coat. This fact did not appear when the jury was selected. In fact, no one present knew Farnsworth was a deputy, except Farnsworth. As the case was submitted to the jury, Justice Cox looked around for an officer to leave in charge of the jury.

"Why, I can take charge," said Juror Farnsworth. "I am a deputy sheriff." And he threw back the lapel of his coat, and a sure-nuff deputy sheriff badge greeted the court.

Justice Cox said Farnsworth would not do to take charge of the jury. Wells took due note of Farnsworth's official position, and this morning produced affidavits alleging that because Farnsworth was a deputy sheriff Savalea did not have a fair trial. To show a connection between the juror and the prosecutors, Wells filed an affidavit showing that Deputy District Attorney Koepsel is also a deputy sheriff.

Koepsel declared that Farnsworth's deputyship in no way interfered with his capacity as a juror.

and Dandruff Also

No one doubts that it is the duty of every woman to look as charming as possible. Every woman knows why she wants to be beautiful and attractive.

A woman with scant hair, dull and lifeless, has lost half her charm. How many times have we heard the expression, "the crowning glory of a woman is her hair."

Nowadays, thanks to Parisian Sage, almost every woman can have hair so radiant and so glorious that it attracts, fascinates and compels admiration.

Parisian Sage, the scientific and ideal hair rejuvenator and tonic, will cause hair to grow. It will turn harsh, withered hair into lustrous and bewitchingly luxuriant hair in a few days.

It is a most delightful hair dressing that kills the dandruff germs, stops falling hair, and eradicates dandruff in two weeks, or your money back.

A large 50 cent bottle is sold by Rowley Drug Co. and dealers everywhere on the money back plan.

ROAD TITLES
BOTHERSOME

County Highway Commission Finds Many Strips to Which Deeds Not Given

The County Highway Commission yesterday gave instructions to hasten the work of straightening out the titles to roads that are to be improved under the county good roads issue. It has been found that in some instances roads that have been used for years have never been deeded to the county. The commission believes that clear titles to a road should be had by the county before the money is expended for building that road.

Plans for a rock crusher and bunkers to be erected at the McPherson gravel plant were explained by Mr. Cobb, and he was asked to submit the plans to the Board of Supervisors.

Mr. Graham, representing the Pacific Rock & Gravel Co. of Los Angeles, verbally offered to deliver rock at some points in the county cheaper than it can be produced and delivered from the McPherson plant. Graham was asked to submit his offer in writing.

About fifty miles of the proposed 167 miles have been surveyed. Engineer Halladay expects to have the work in shape so that bids for road work can be called for the first of June.

ORIGIN AND HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF ELKS

First Lodge Organized in New York City in 1867 by An Englishman and Was Called the Jolly Corks—Now
Over 300,000 Members

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks was first organized in 1867 and was started by a few Jolly fellows who wanted to enjoy life first and attend to business afterward.
They held their initial meeting in New York and called themselves the Jolly Corks. This name must have been selected because of the fact that several of the originators were members of that branch of the theatrical profession devoted to minstrelsy. But soon after the Jolly Corks had organized themselves into a society they decided to broaden its scope and have for an ideal a higher aim than just a good time. A universal brotherhood was the prime object of the reorganized society and the name was changed to the one it now bears.

From a little company of good fellows the order has grown until it embraces lodges in more than 350 of the principal towns and cities of the United States.

From a small gathering of men who were holding out a helping hand to one another the order has grown until there are more than $20,000 in possession of the Grand Lodge that is held in reserve.

Money Was Returned

Some idea of the magnitude of the order and of the class of men who are on its roll of membership may be gained from an incident connected with the terrible earthquake at San Francisco.

When the news was first flashed over the country the Grand Lodge of Elks ordered a check for $10,000 sent to the San Francisco lodge. This was followed up with donations from every lodge in the country. Soon after this, and while cries of graft were shocking the country in connection with the relief of the sufferers, every check was returned by the San Francisco Elks.
Not one cent was taken by that lodge and not a man who was a member of the Elks accepted a cent from any outside source. The money that had been sent by the Grand Lodge and all of the subordinate lodges was returned.

A Remarkable Record

San Francisco Lodge took care of its members and thought the city was almost totally destroyed not an Elk in that territory had to call on the outside world for help.

When Messina was hit waste by an earthquake, the Grand Lodge of Elks sent $5,000 to the sufferers.
There was never any publicity given to these donations and the world would not have known about them had they gained circulation through the regular course of business.

Brotherly love and justice go hand in hand with charity, and one cannot exist without the other, so those three items are the cardinal points of Elkdom. There have been many stories told of how the order was originated, but the man perhaps who is most responsible for it and who suggested the brotherly love feature was Charles Algernon Sidney Vivian, an Englishman. It may seem strange that an Englishman should have been the founder of a strictly American order, but it is true nevertheless.

A Universal Brotherhood

Vivian was a vaudeville performer and dreamed night and day of the time when all mankind would live and have its being in a universal brotherhood where love and charity would predominate.

It was this man who shaped in a great measure the future of the order, and to this day it is following out largely his ideas. The name, however, was not of his selection. Vivian favored giving the order the name of Buffalo, because he had been a member of an order in England of that name.

At that time there were 16 members of the order, and the vote was a close one, the Elks winning by a majority of one.

Meetings were held in the parlors of a boarding house that was very popular with musicians and other jolly fellows. The order soon outgrew this meeting place and new quarters were secured. Then it was that the Elks broadened in scope and men from all walks of life began making application for membership.

There were at various times discussion regarding the name of the organization, and the members who favored the continuance of the one adopted made an investigation of the character of the animal whose name had been chosen.

A Magnificent Animal

In Buffon's natural history, which was found in a library of Cooper Institute, much information regarding the elk was obtained. Here it was said that the animal would not fight except in defense of the female, when attacked by an enemy, or for the helpless, the wounded and the young of his herd. It was also said he was timid regarding wrongdoing, but was brave when aroused. These researches served to solidify the defenders of the title, and it remained undisturbed in after years.

Vivian never lived to see the order of Elks grow to the great society that it soon became, for he died in Leadville, Colo., March 20, 1880. His remains were interred there, but later were brought to Boston, and now he rests in the Elks' plot of Mt. Hope cemetery in that city, his grave being marked with a handsome monument erected by the order.

An effort was made during the early years of the order to confine its membership to the theatrical profession, but this met with instant opposition, and for a time bid fair to precipitate a bitter factional fight.

The spirit of brotherly love, however, on which the order was founded, finally prevailed, and peace was declared.

The 11 O'clock Toast

There has been much speculation regarding the 11 o'clock toast of the Elks, but little has been known regarding it.

This feature originated in 1868, when, just as the New York lodge was about to adjourn, George McDonald, one of the original members of the order, suggested a "toast to our absent brothers."

From that came the 11 o'clock toast and, the world over, all Elks are supposed to give just a moment of thought to the absent brother at that hour. This little tribute to the departed is one of the most beautiful things connected with Elkdom.

Lodge of Sorrow

Two years after the adoption of the 11 o'clock toast the Lodge of Sorrow was created, and each year since then each lodge has paid loving tribute to those brothers who have been called into the great beyond. At these meetings appropriate addresses are made and ceremonies that befit the occasion are held.

At all these meetings the names of absent brothers are called by the secretary, for no man claimed by death is ever forgotten by his lodge.

There has been an impression among some not fully familiar with the order that this tribute is paid only to those who have departed during the year. This, however, is a mistake, as all names are called and all are given that same mark of respect.

Keep Open House

The Elks have a feature that no other order in the world possesses. It is the open house. Go where you will, if there is a lodge of Elks where you stop the open door will be found.

There also will you find a brother if you are an Elk, ready to receive you and if needs be to minister to your wants.

Every lodge of Elks has a secretary, whose duty is to remain at the home for the sole purpose of receiving and entertaining those who may call.

It makes no difference to what lodge you may belong, just so you are an Elk, you are welcome. The man who is a member of the 'Frisco lodge is just as much at home, has just as many rights in the lodge room of the New York Elks as the man who has lived in the metropolis all his life.

There is no distinction, no difference made. A member of the Manila lodge will be just as much at ease and be just as welcome in Little Rock and be given just as much attention and privilege as he would be accorded in his own town.

The "Hello Bill"

The "Hello Bill" of the Elks is the only introduction needed where two or more of them meet. That salutation has no place in the ritual of the order, it is true, but it has been adopted by universal consent. It is the open sesame of goodfellowship.

It is the guarantee that goes with a good nature, a clear conscience, an open purse and a kind heart.

If you are not an Elk you are missing the best things on earth; you are not getting what is coming to you and you are losing an opportunity to do good that if accepted will make you live longer, feel better and laugh more.—Walter Taylor, in Atlantic Journal.

ELKDOM EXTENDS ITS ARMS

Did you who are not an Elk, ever seriously consider the worth of the Elk lodge, ever think over or even wonder what good the order did that was worth while—did you?

If you never did, remember that it is never too late to do good. There is an old axiom that says something about still water running deep and it is this way the Elks do the good that shall live after them. There is no organization in existence, of a fraternal character, that makes less of its charitable work or does more than the order of Elks. Every New Year or Christmas, each Elk of the United States contributes toward charity. The money is given voluntarily, for all Elks understand that that is their annual contribution to the poor they will have always with them, and out of the fulness of their own blessings and prosperity they give to those less fortunate.

Once each year during the holiday season, when the poor are most in need, hundreds of baskets brimming with substantial foods and an assortment of good things of a dainty sort are distributed among the poor of Santa Ana. Poor committees appointed among the lodge members, among the police department and local charity organizations, go out into the byways and hedges and secure a list of the most deserving poor and this list is turned into the Elks where another committee makes out name and address slips and attaches them to the baskets ready for delivery. In this way the food is given to those who are ill, or lame, or blind, or just naturally poor and unable to do anything for themselves. Unfortunate mothers with little children are thus enabled to give their babies a Christmas or New Year treat, a real meal such as the mothers themselves probably knew when they were little girls and had happy and comfortable homes.

This is one way in which the fraternity scatters good cheer where good cheer is so sadly lacking. The Elk is of that type of humanity always ready to extend a helping hand where succor is needed; always ready to cheer the despondent and soothe the afflicted. He may not be an angel as angels are reckoned in this sordid old world, but he does it without asking for praise, or that lime light of publicity be turned on his actions.

Vive to Elk!

ONLY A DREAM

Judge F. O. Daniel walked into the office of County Superintendent of Schools Mitchell this morning with his usual pleasing smile increased a thousandfold.

"Professor," said the Judge, "I never was so pleased in my life."

"How so?" said the professor.

"Well, when I walked into the Superior Court room last night I beheld a shining new polished floor, new rugs, a brass railing, opera chairs, electric lights and the walls beautifully tinted. Painted roof. And I was about to fall upon my knees and thank the supervisors. Just then I awoke."

PERSONALS

Russell Scott is about the biggest "around" Elk in town, but there are a number that have him skinned for "up and down" bigness.

Mit Phillips is considerable of an Elk, even if he doesn't work at it—come to think of it what does Mit work at?

Exalted Ruler Merton, recently elected to that office, held the chair down for the first time last Tuesday night. He was in splendid voice and delivered his talks somewhat loudly. In a peroration requiring great emphasis he concluded with these words "The question is, what will you take?" This aroused a slumbering brother long enough for him to petulantly and growlsily exclaim: "Aw gimme the same."

Impresario Prandiorino Remsberger is responsible for the selection of the Elks' Minstrel soloists. If the singing don't suit you, soak Frank, but let the poor singers live; they're doing their best.

Judge Willson has volunteered to carry water to the Elks in exchange for his admission tickets to the Elks' Big Minstrel. Judge says it won't take much water because Elks don't drink much.

Charlie Kelley is an Elk, but sells drugs as a side line.

The Scream overlooked an item about Bob Shafer going to Anaheim, but as Bob did not go to Anaheim the failure to mention ought not to be held against us.

"Running for the legislature," says Clyde Bl-hop, "ain't in it with running a Cadillac roadster."

Brother Butman of Redlands Lodge No. 583 who has been living at the Elks' Home for the past month, is a sort of silent partner of the Minstrel show, lending dignity to the practice. When the boisterous boys spy his Van Dyke peeking through the door they immediately get busy.

W. C. Butman for the past two weeks has been working as Jack Taylor's deputy in policing the Elks' Home. Jack chose him because of the fact that he was a representative of the Gibraltar Investment and Home Building Co., and the name appealed to him. He says Brother Butman stands like a rock at the door of the rehearsal room and when any Elk tries to sneak from Minstrel rehearsal he flashes an investment contract in his face and that scares him back.

Ernest Middel really isn't grouchy, he just looks that way.

Negro Minstrelsy From its Origin to The Present Day

[FRANK DUMONT]

The first minstrel troupe appeared in public January 31, 1843. They appeared for the benefit of one of their number, Dick Pelham. The troupe comprised just four—Dan Emmett, the author of "Dixie;" Frank Brower Bones, dancer and comedian; Billy Whitlock, banjoist and dancer, and R. W. Pelham (Dick), who played the tambourine and danced also. The four had been connected with circus companies—introducing dancing and negro songs in the ring, and meeting in the winter of 1843, they conceived the idea of merging their talents for the benefit of their brother performer, Dick Pelham, who was appearing between the acts in the National Theater, Chatham street, near Roosevelt, afterwards known as Purdy's National Theater. Previous to this, individual singers of negro songs had appeared, notably "Daddy" Rice, who sang "Jump Jim Crow," and from whom the sear store figures "Jim Crow" and at present the "Jim Crow" cars of the South got their name, and are still reminders of that great and popular exponent of negro songs and dances. But it remained for Emmett, Brower, Whitlock and Pelham to organize and present the very first minstrel troupe in the world. I have the program of this initial performance (perhaps the only one in existence) and the songs and dances it contains are of the plantation variety entirely, viz: "Such a Gettin' Up Stairs," "My Old Aunt Sally," "Gwine Over de Mountains," "Old Dan Tucker," "I Wish I Was in Old Virginia," "Dance de Boatmen Dance." Then a trial breakdown or a jig dance enlivened the bill, and a banjo solo such as the "Coon Hunt," "Buffalo Gals, Are You Coming Out Tonight?" or "Jordan Am a Hard Road to Trablac." This made up a bill which probably lasted a half hour. The novelty was so pronounced and so successful that the four, who called themselves the "Virginia Minstrels," appeared the night following at the Bowery Amphitheater, which was located about where the Windsor Theater is situated, nearly opposite the old Bowery Theater. The four went on a short tour as far as Boston and sailed for England, where they took London by storm.

Meanwhile other negro performers or "Negro Singers," as they were then called, formed bands, and the minstrel troupes began to multiply and flourish. One of the earliest was the "Congo Minstrels," organized by the Buckleys, father and three sons, Bishop, Fred and Swaine. They were very talented and thorough musicians. They were the first to harmonize the negro melodies and songs. Several years afterwards they travelled under the name of "Buckley's Serenaders." Fred Buckley was a composer of note. He was the author of nearly all of the popular songs of his day. He was the first to introduce an instrument of great compass and sweetness. In shape it resembled a guitar, with 84 keys in its handle connecting to steel reeds in the body of the instrument. This instrument is now in my possession. About the time the Buckleys began to attract attention a banjoist by the name of E. P. Christy organized a small troupe in Buffalo. This was about 1845 or 1846. They did not at first call themselves the "Christy Minstrels," but a year afterwards their bills announced "Christy's Minstrels."

A wonderful genius by the name of George Harrington was with this troupe. He afterwards became famous as George Christy. This troupe appeared about 1846, at the Society Library rooms, New York, and next at Palm's Opera House, Chambers street, near Broadway.

In 1847 they opened at 472 Broadway, Mechanics Hall, and remained there until 1854.

Christy retired wealthy, but at the beginning of the war, 1861, he began to fear the loss of his money and securities, and in a moment of dementia hurled himself from an upper window. He lived but a short time afterwards, and died, universally regretted. He was the greatest actor, dancer, singer and burlesque artist of his time, and is ever mentioned in connection with minstrelsy.

Ramsey and Newcomb, also the Campbells Minstrels flourished for a decade before the war. All the minstrels of note were with these troupes: Jerry Bryant, W. W. Newcomb, Frank Brower, Eph. Horn, Matt. Peel, Luke West, Sam Wells, Dave Wambold, Pony Moore, Fred Wilson, Tim Noron, Billy Birch, Ben Cotton, John Mulligan, Dave Reed, J. R. Thomas, the composer; Hughie Dougherty, Paul Bergen, M. Ainsley Scott, Billy Arlington, Kelly and Leon, R. M. Hooley, C. W. H. Griffin, Cool White, S. S. Sanford, Archie Hughes and others.

Wood's Minstrels began at 444 Broadway about 1851, succeeding Pelham's Minstrels. Charley White had a Minstrel hall at 53 Bowery, where all the famous minstrels appeared. Sam Sharpley and Ben Cotton were located at 514 Broadway. The Bryant's Minstrels opened 472 Broadway on February 23, 1857, and remained there many years before going up to Tammany Hall (Pastor's Theater). Dan Emmett wrote "Dixie" for a walk around in 1859. During the Civil War the Confederates took the song as a "war hymn." One line in it made it dear to the Southern heart, "In Dixie-land I'll take my stand to live and die in Dixie." The great singers of the Bryant's were Tom Pendergast, Dave Wambold, Jules Stratton, C. C. Templeton, S. C. Campbell, J. W. Hilton, Napoleon W. Gould, Ainley Scott, Frank Leslie, Charles Henry, W. P. Grier, Master Adams, Rollin Howard, etc.

It is strange to look back over the old collection of songs and see the evolution of ballad long before the war. Such songs as "Cottage by the Sea," "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother," "Old Dog Tray," "Belle Brandon," "Willie, We Have Missed You," "Rosalee the Prairie Flower," "Bonnie Eloise the Belle of the Mohawk Vale," "Annie Lisle," "Annie of the Vale," "Nellie Gray," "Nellie Was a Lady," "Nancy Till," etc., were great and popular songs. Then came the war, with its ballads, "When This Cruel War Is Over," "Mother Kissed Me in My Dream," "Brother Fainting at the Door," "Tramp, Tramp," "Rally Round the Flag," "Tenting Tonight" and "Babylon Is Fallen." Then came another change, in which the titles of songs were about a sweetheart's name, and she invariably died in the second verse. Then came a swarm of "Mother Songs" all about Mother. But one song was written about father, and that was called "Come Home Father," and, as Billy Birch used to say, "they had to get the old man drunk before he would go home."

Kelly and Leon's Minstrels were at 720 Broadway for quite a while, beginning about 1866 or 1867. Birch, Wambold, Bernard and Backus opened 585 Broadway in April, 1865, and became the most popular troupe ever located in New York. They continued popular as ever up to 1883. In this troupe were some of the greatest singers and comedians in the world. Billy Birch, Charley Beekus, Dave Wambold, George Thatcher, Billy Sweatman, Bob Slavin, Johnson & Powers, Edwin French, T. B. Dixon, J. P. Whitmark, Arthur Cook, C. F. Shuttuck, W. H. Frillman, Frank Wilson, Harry Roe, W. S. Mullaly, Frank Dumont, Harry Kennedy, Harry Richmond, Stanley Grey, J. M. Woods, Beaumont Read, A. C. Moreland, and a host of talent, including Schoolcraft and Coes, Frank Cushman, the Only Leon, the Big Four, and Ricardo were members. The early minstrels appeared in striped pants, checked shirts, and sometimes wore straw hats intending to represent plantation dummies. Later on they appeared in evening dress and announced themselves as "Dandy Darkies of the North." This portion is the one now retained as the first part in minstrelsy. Ordway's Minstrels were located in Boston from 1849 to about 1860. Fred Wilson was the first to introduce a clog dance in minstrelsy. With them was Gilmore's Band; P. C. Gilmore playing the tambourine. Then the Morris Brothers were their successors. The first to wear the full evening dress, swallowtail coats, white vests and black pants were Dumbolton's Serenaders, who flourished from 1845 to 1850. Jerry Bryant and Matt Peel were members of this company.

When E. P. Christy went to England the name survived, it being applied to any and all minstrels; our English cousins calling them "Christies."

In later days we have had some very popular minstrel companies, the progenitors of these companies have brought modern minstrelsy up to a very high plane, and have yet retained all of its original charm.

Among the most notable of these are Al. G. Fields Minstrels, a popular organization known from coast to coast as the exponent of all that is best in minstrelsy; Haverly's Minstrels (everybody knew and loved Col. Jack Haverly, whose famous "forty, count 'em," is known wherever minstrels have played); Lew Dockstader's Minstrels, headed by Lew Dockstader, whose personal magnetism is wonderful, and who stands at the front in humorous monologue and coon songs; McNish, Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels; Barlow, Wilson, Primrose & West's, which later became Thatcher, Primrose & West's, then Thatcher withdrew to give us his Minstrel Novelty "Tuxedo" of pleasant memory, and Primrose & West minstrels continued together under that title; then Primrose's Minstrels, with George Primrose at their head, and West's Minstrels, New Orleans Minstrels, Gorman Brothers' Minstrels, Vogel's Minstrels, Gus Sun's Minstrels, Richards & Pringles, Kersands Minstrels, Dandy Dixie Minstrels and many others have been continually before the public.

For permanent minstrels New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco and London claim the honor of long continued runs.

In New York the San Francisco Minstrels had an uninterrupted course of prosperity and fun for many years. In San Francisco Billy Emerson's Minstrels played a long continued engagement. In London a theater that could boast of not closing its doors for 28 years on this favorite form of amusement. Here the famous Moore & Burgess Minstrels held forth. In Philadelphia Sam Cartee leased the Eleventh Street Opera House and opened it on December 4, 1854, with the "Julien Serenaders" or Minstrels. Then came Sandford's Minstrels, and in 1862 Carnecross and Dixey and their minstrels opened there, and continued until about fifteen years ago, when the famous old home of minstrelsy passed under my control, and here "Dumont's Minstrels" held forth nightly.

Some of my singers and comedians have been with me ten years or more, and from this stage graduated Chauncey Olcott, Eddie Foy, Jack Raffael, John C. The institution of minstrelsy is upon a firmer footing today than ever before, and many thousands of dollars are expended for the scenery, costumes and electrical effects, which give it its present grand spectacular setting and which tend to make it more popular than ever.

BLUSH—A temporary erythema and colorific diffidence of the physiognomy, actuated by the perceptiveness of the sensorium, in a predicament of inequilibrium from a sense of shame, anger or other cause, eventuating in a paresis of the vaso-motorial, muscular filaments of the facial capillaries, whereby, being divested of their elasticity, they become suffused with a radiance emanating from an intimated praeccordia.

"Typical Chants Sung by Negroes"

[BY JOHN SANBORN]

No race is more governed by superstition in the world than the negroes; his life is filled with fatal periods and unlucky days, and his nights are haunted with visions of witches, elves and demons.

Among the negroes who are far removed from civilization, the chief religious consolation is a most intense form of voodooism or devil worship. It is practiced chiefly by the flinty-haired, low-browed, almost chinless negro, who delights in being frightened and whose belief in a personal devil acts upon him much in the same manner as soothing syrup does upon a child. This belief is hereditary, descended through countless generations from the time when the negro tribes from which the darkey is descended, worshipped Mumbo Jumbo in the depths of the African forests.

His faith, if you can call a heathenish belief such, is governed by what might be termed a cult of superstition with which every negro is enveloped when he is projected into the world.

The negroes have a tradition that their forebears were visited a thousand years ago by a great and holy man called Christ, who abode with them in the depths of the African forests for many years. This could not be anyone else save St. Chrysostom, who, tradition states, visited the coast and interior of Liberia. Whether the saintly qualities of St. Chrysostom were ever preached to the benighted negro by the early missionaries or whether the saint himself visited the country of the Liberians the fact remains, and it is a rather strange one at that, that St. Chrysostom was the first saint to give credence to superstition. St. Chrysostom declared "The people suspect everything and are more in bondage than if they were slaves many times over. This is that man was first to meet me when I walked out, therefore I'll innumerable will befall me; my servant handed me my left shoe first; this indicates dire calamities. I started out left foot first—a sign of misfortune. My right eye twitched on issuing forth for a walk; this portends tears. The braying of a donkey, a sudden sneeze, the crowing of a cock, all indicate something." All of these signs alluded to by St. Chrysostom are taken by the negro as ill omens, but he adds to the category, "The dire misfortunes that follow in the wake of a black cat crossing his path and the negro has also a dread of hares. In fact, the hare is looked upon by the Southern negro as the devil's habinger or lepus, and in some parts of the remote glades of Florida the darkies switch the bushes to warn the hares away, believing them to be vehicles for imps and demons. But the rabbit's foot has ever been an omen of unwonted prosperity. A darkey of the type of which I speak, will also chase and kill the hen that crows, which is considered a sign of bad luck and the indication of the assumption by a female of masculine prerogatives.

Then again, an over-exuberance of enthusiasm at a revival meeting results often in a religious frenzy which exceeds all bounds of ordinary understanding and sometimes common decency, and which changes to positive devil worship. In the cotton fields of the "low grounds" and the tobacco patches of the "new ground" remote from civilization, religious orgies are to be occasionally witnessed where the hymns sung under the direction or leadership of some itinerant darkey revivalists have been transposed to meet the requirements of the devil dancers.

And nothing is more devilishly fearsome than to see from forty to fifty white-haired darkies cawwalk around a bright forest fire chanting weird songs to the twang of improvised banjos or tom toms, and the clasp of polished rib bones. From an old voodoo doctor I secured a copy of some of the devil worshippers' chants, as follows: "O, de debbel's got his eye on de sinner."

Look for the breakin' ob de day, Ebber day he has one for his dinner, Look for the breakin' ob de day."

Another one runs:

"Pick ma teeth wid er white oak rail, Ketch the debbel by de tail, Wa'am ma feet by de coals ob hell, Eat hot sulphur, it tastes right well!"

One of their most delectable chants goes like this:

"How dye do, old Uncle Nick, G' me a swaller ob hot lead, quick Soak me good in bilin' ile, An' smooth me off wid a red hot file!"

These devil worship songs or chants are marrow-freezing as they strike upon the ear while the eye of the concealed observer dilates with horror as the gyrations and constrictions of the dancers are followed. When the frenzy dies down the women, who have discreetly remained in the background cooking a mess in a large pot, start together a shrill chorus to the twang of rib bones and which runs: "Houn' dog in de dinner pot, Lick, lick, lick, Chicken in de bread tray, Pick, pick, pick."

It is a long jump from the songs of the voodoo followers to the plaintive folklore songs of the Southland. I will tell something of the real poetic side of the darkey.

I remember an old negro mammy telling me that all her songs were so filled with what she described as "de holy spirit" that she forgot she was working if she just kept singing; all the time she made her songs up on the spur of the moment, and it is a fact that the great soul and heart stirring music of the negro was brought from Africa in the slave ships.

One old gray-haired darkey who had been born and reared in slavery told me that their hymns were spontaneous, in fact he said to me, "Marso Sanborn, us old heads used to make 'em up on the spur of de moment, after we'd wrestled wid de spirit an' come throo, but de tunes was brung from Africky by our granddaddies. Dey is just milliar (merely ear) songs. Dese days dey call 'em ballets, but in de ole days dey call 'em spirituales, kose de holy spirit done teach 'em der old time negro custims."

The negro, by some mysterious power does not take a breath at the end of a line or verse, but carries over his breath from line to line and from verse to verse at the imminent risk of bursting a blood vessel. He holds on to one note until he has a firm hold on the next one, and then besides, he turns every monosyllable word into two syllables, and places the accent where it does not belong, on the last half of the word.

A marked peculiarity of the negro singing is that very often in the heat of their religious fervor, they will repeat again and again the same verses. This is because they are carried away by the potent spell which each song casts over one and all.

PARODY ON "I'D RATHER TWO-STEP THAN WALTZ, BILL."

By James Madison

I'll sing you of some dances that were famous in their day,
Such as the bomb-a-shay,
And La Palome so gay,
And for a time the can-can really had an awful sway,
Till Doctor Parkhurst from the stage made us take it away.
For weeks I've tried to get some dancers for my burlesque show,
But ev'ry where I'd go,
"The word I got was 'no,'" I told one dancer who was nifty Ev'ry weed I'd pay her fifty,
But her answer didn't come back slow:

CHORUS

I'd rather Koochee than waltz, Bill,
I'd rather Koochee than eat;
Put on Salome, Bill,
Or chase back home, Bill,
I'll give a wiggle,
That will make folks all wriggle,
Though I wear neither stockings nor shoes, Bill,
Ministers dare not find fault,
Show-men are smart,
They declare it's high art,
So I'd rather koochee than waltz.

Is it good manners to kiss a young unmarried lady in your wife's presence?

It is good manners, but not good judgment.

Mistress—Did the fisherman who called here this morning have frog legs.

Servant—Sure, mum, I don't know. He wore pants.

Baskets will be provided at the door in which to deposit all farm products and ancient hen fruit donated to the actors by the audience.

By special invitation the players, immediately after the show, will leave on a special train for Patton, as guests of the State.

Joe Burke started to write a poem for the Elks, but never got any further than the title—"An Ode to Her Eyes."

Have you reserved your seats for the Elks Minstrels? If not, why not?

Don't cry; you'll laugh soon.
